

DISCIPLINE FastF

of all articles published in the

In the last four years of publishing data in the Academic Analytics database, of the hundreds of journal titles in which Political Science scholars publish, Journal of Politics is the journal title where scholars publish the most.

Collaborative research among faculty in Political Science accounts for 42.9% of all co-authored Political Science journal publications.

42.9%

In Political Science, collaborative research is pursued with enthusiasm. Political Science scholars conduct extensive collaborative research with faculty in over 150 separate disciplines.

66.8% of the discipline journal articles captured in the Academic Analytics database published by multiple authors.

66.8%

Public Policy is the discipline most often involved in collaborative research with 4.9% of all Political Science co-authored journal publications. The next two most frequent disciplines are International Affairs and Development and Economics with 4.9% and 4.2% of all Political Science co-authored journal publications, respectively. Do you know who are the top potential collaborators in these fields that best complement your research, and where they are located?

Data from the Academic Analytics database indicate that of POLITICAL SCIENCE faculty currently receive federal funding.

The top sources of federal funding for Political Science are the National Science Foundation with 67% of captured funding for the discipline and the Department of Education. The Department of Education provided 16.7% of captured funding for the discipline through National Resource Centers and Fellowships Program for Language and Area or Language and International Studies / Foreign Language and Area Studies Fellowships.

Since Academic Analytics uses the individual researcher as the unit of record, we can look across all faculty in a discipline to view their current rank and the years since their most advanced degree.

ASSOCIATE

ASSISTANT professor

18.1

Average academic ages (years since their most advanced degree) of Political Science scholars nationally

> Percent of faculty ranks within the national discipline

31.5%

How does the distribution of faculty in your department compare to the national averages, and what are the implications for planning?

Research Insight from Academic Analytics can help answer that.

individuals in the Academic Analytics database who are affiliated with Political Science departments.

Of the faculty population for whom we can infer gender

FEMALE

© 2020 Academic Analytics All Rights Reserved

According to the data captured in the Academic Analytics database, 39.7% of Political Science faculty have received a national honorific award. The American Political Science Association provides the most honorific awards for the discipline, accounting for 25.2% of all recorded awards. Of the faculty population for whom we have been able to identify gender, the distribution of awards granted by the American Political Science Association is 67.6% of awards going to male scholars and 32.4% going to female scholars.